

Landscape:

Today, the city has 25,585 residents, according to the 2010 Census. Belvidere is an industrial community surrounded by rich farmland. Boone County consists of 147,059 acres, with 81% of this land classified as Prime Farmland. The landscape varies from rolling hills, to flat farmland, to many creeks, ponds, and wetlands. Significant woodland areas are located throughout the county and contribute to the area's character and beauty.